ag to current that O'Brien had met block that, and had arranged with them the he should have immunity from presention and he need as a witness against his dupes whom he had induced to enter the policy business. In the meantime his bondsman secured a bail piece therein warrant; and took every measure possible to ascertain his hidding place. Last Sunday evening at 8 o'clock O'Brien was seen at the carner of Saventh and II streets southwest (whim a few steps of block's residence). He remained there some time, evidently waiting for block to come home. On Wednesday evening he was again seen and arrested by Baliff Torrens, as stated in yesterday's day evening he was again seen and arrested by Ballif Torrens, as stated in yesterday's REFURLICAN. When arrested on the ball piece O'Brien stated that he would be released as seen as Block and Raff knew that he was was under arrest. He was held at the seventh precinct station house until morning, when he was brought into the criminal court. Mr. Taggart then arese and stated that on the recommendation of Detectives Block and Raff he desired O'Brien's release on his personal bonds, which was ordered by the court. "After the release the matter was commented upon by the lawyers present as a remarkable upon by the lawyers present as a remarkable upon by the lawyers present as a remarkable proceeding. A party arrested on a bouch warrant on the charge of jumping $1,000 bail released on his personal bonds.

It was stated by several other parties to the reporter that O Brien had been implicated in wholesale blackmating schomes. He procured magisterial warrants for a number of men known to be in the policy business, and surrendered them to the parties upon the payment of certain amounts without making any arrests.

A GROUNDLESS ARREST.

Florence Smith, the little colored girl, an account of whose outrageous arrest on a groundless charge of theft was given in yesterday's Republican, was on trial in the police court yesterday for that offense. A large number of colored persons were in attendance. Genevieve Saffell, the complainant, when sworn, testified that while passing up Seventh street Wednesday afternoon she was approached by the defendant, who said ant, when sworn, tostified that while pushing up Seventh street Weducsday afternoon she was approached by the defendant, who said to her, 'How much money have you get?' "I told her not much, when she snatched my reticule and ran away. I then went to the posteffice, where my father is employed, and he went out to look for the girl." The witness identified the defendant as the girl who had snatched her pocketbook, and described her dress.

James Saffell, the complainant's father, was the next witness, and tostified that his daughter told him that a colored girl had stolen her pocketbook. Witness went into the street and saw defendant, who denied having stolen the pocketbook. "Detective Mattingly was passing," said the witness, 'and I said 'Hello, Joe, I've get a case for you.'"

Detective Mattingly was sworn and stated that he arrested the girl on G street, near Seventh street northwest. As he was taking her to the station house she refused to ga.
"Did you put the nippers on her?" asked Mr. Hewlett, the girl's counsel.
"Yes, because she became unruly," replied the wiless.

Did you drag her to the station house?" The defendant was sworn, and denied having stolen the pocketbook and to being dressed as the first witness had described. She said she was on her way to the store, and had never seen the little girl.

The defendant's sister and father corroborated her testimony as to dress.

Judge Snell said that the complainant was a bright witness, but was evidently mistaken.

He dismissed the case.

The blue pencil and the tablet with which Maj. Dye is generally occupied were missing when a REFERILLY reporter entered the room yesterday. The major was reading a law book, while standing about the room were several other persous. When the reporter entered the major looked up, ran his hand through his hair, pulled a pen from the rack and said, "I suppose you are looking for news?" Yes, sir, replied the reporter: "can you give me some news?"

"No, I don't think of any.

"Can you throw any light on the rather queer actions of a certain policeman at an unitown hotel, major? It is said that the policeman referred to had been detailed to work up a case at the hotel, and that while he was whispering the fact that he was 'a detective' through the lobby another robbery was being perpetrated in the house," said the reporter.

"l'on't know anything about it," replied the insjor, toying with a piece of paper, and looking out of the window, and the door, and at the floor, and at the other people in the room and the new restriction. the room, and then yawning.

The delegation asserted that the measures now before congress would afford them but little relief, and they sug-gested a plan which they thought would afford them better facilities and less expense in their dealings with the bonds.

Another Quarter's Salary.

Gov. John N. Irwin, of Idaho, has returned to the treasury department the sum of $650, being the amount of his salary of governor of that territory for the quarter ending Dec. 31 last. The money has been deposited to the credit of miscellaneous receipts. Lov. Irwin had already returned his salary for the two previous quarters. No explanation of his conduct is given.

THE HOLY LAND

Described by the Fervid Eloquence of a Scholar and an Orator.

Bishop Keane's Narration of His Pilgrimage to the Country of the Bible.

So great was the desire to hear Bishop Koane lecture upon the holy land last night, that long before the hour of commencement Lincoln hall was packed to its doors and many were turned away. The lecture was for the benefit of the orphan boys. A few minutes after 8 o'clock the bishop, arrayed in his purple robe, came upon the platform accompanied by a number of well-known priests. He needed no introduction, as the round of applause greeting his arrival plainly indicated his popularity. Drawing near to the footlights, and with a Drawing near to the footlights, and with a look indicating the earnestness of the thoughts within him and the grandeur of the theme to be spoken of, he began in a clear tone to take his audience upon an imaginary journey to the land of the Orient. He knew, said he, the desire in every heart was to visit the Holy land. It was a desire filled with reverence, and by God's grace and power, in his feeble way, he would lead them on such a journey. Leaving New York on the fifth of April he landed in Marseilles on May 2 following, and then by steamer to the city of Alexandris on Wednesday, May 2, where he remained for three days. A bird's eye view was given of the place made noted by recent events. He spoke of the devastation occasioned by the bombardment of the English, followed by the bombardment of the English, followed by the bombardment of the English, collowed by the bombardment, and methods of the people were commented on. The "bak-sheesh" beggars were on every side. There he went to Tyre, which was described with minutest detail alluding to its Series. "bak-sheesh" beggars were on every side. Thence he went to Tyre, which was described with minutest detail, alluding to its Scripture significance and importance. Leaving there they arrived at the pyramid of Cheops, which, with the Sphinx, was graphically pictured, the one as the accomplishment of man's vanity, the other as the genius of the east, awaiting the light of the Orient. At Alexandria he found the American consults he a wealthy. Helprew who gould not speak At Alexandria he found the American consult to be a wealthy Hebrew who could not speak a word of English. He got the position for the sake of getting into society. After montioning other cities and events incident to his journey, he and his companions reached the city of Jerusalem. The Franciscans, whose guest he became, were kindly speken of. He gave a history of their order. Every pilgrim arriving at the Holy City becomes their guest for two weeks, matters not what his race or creed. The stories of the turbulence of the monks was to him like the fable of the lamb and the wolf. of the lamb and the wolf.

of the lamb and the wolf.

The sacred spots in the city were pointed out, and at great length. With fervid and splendid eloquence he pictured his emotions as he stood on the memorable and hallowed splendid eloquence he pictured his emotions as he stood on the memorable and hallowed places of his Master's carthly pilgrimage, marked by a temple, a church, and a chapel. "Here," said he "every one prays. It is a city of prayer. A man who enters its portals without praying is despised, even by the Turk. Daily could be seen the devotions of the Christian, the Armenian, the Copt. and the Jow." He was pained to speak of the irreverence of classes who did go there. There was a class who read Mark Twain, in search of a joke, and another class who did not search for a joke, but for objects of ridicule. He did not see how such could stand in holy places and with the facts of centuries around him make light of the sacredness before them. For a long time his hearers listened to a word painting of the city of sacred memories, and as detail after detail was given the panorama became almost real. Leaving Jerusalem, Nazareth was reached, which also received a full description and afterward he led his audience to America—the land of his love.

During the lecture incidents were mentioned occurring in the journey which eccasioned much laughter. The bishop's health tioned occurring in the journey which eccasioned much laughter. The bishop's health seemed much improved, and his voice seemed to be at its best, and for two hours or more his audience was attentive to his elequent expressions of thought.

St. Elizabeth. At St. Elizabeth Wednesday night the usual "regular order" of entertainment was broken upon by substituting the musical and tramatic performance for that of the social dramatic performance for that of the social dauce participated in by the patients every Wednesday evening, and this was done to accommodate 1 rof. Robert (C. Bernays, whose engagements would have prevented his coming on Friday. The concert was under the direction of 1 rof. William F. Weber, supported by a large corps of artists, and reflected great credit on all those assisting. Prof. Bernays' yielin suppose was assembly seed. Bernays' violin numbers were especially well rendered and he was'enthusiastically recalled. Fell Dead on the Street. Mrs. Julia Robinson, who resided at 914 Fourth street northwest, and employed in the government printing office, dropped dead yesterday about 5 p. m. on H street, between First and North Capitol streets. She had fluished her work at the office and started home. After proceeding about half a block she was seen to stagger a few steps and then fall heavily on the pavement. She was carried into the nearest store, and Dr. Bond was summoned, but before any assistance could be rendered she expired. The cause of her death is supposed to have been some affection of the lungs. She was about 50 years of age, and had been in feeble health for some time. Fourth street northwest, and employed

The Cable System. The cable traction railway system is now being extensively laid on the Union Pas senger Railway company's lines in Philadelphia to the extent of twenty-eight miles. A contract has also been made with the Third Avenue line in the city of New York. This system is found after many tests to have met system is found after many tests to have met-all the requirements necessary for the pro-pelling of street cars, and in consequence has been adopted by the above roads. Col. Boyor, of Philadelphia, the general manager of the United Cable Moter Construction company, the owners of the above system, and known as the Benzano patents, is now in this city making the preliminary arrangements for the introduction and use of this system on the streets of Washington.

St. Patrick's Day.

The various Catholic organizations in this city are making active preparations for the celebration on St. Patrick's day. The line of murch and the officers appointed for that day have already been published in this paper. A banquet will be given at Abnar's in the evening, after the parade. It is expected that there will be in the line nearly every organization in the city. The employes of the several departments will probably be excused for the day, as the President stated on Wednesday he would call the attention of the heads of departments at the cabinet meeting to-day. A meeting of the officers will be held this or to-merrow evening to complete arrangements.

TILLER TAKEN.

The Abscording Money Clerk Arrested and $90,000 of the Stolen Money Recovered.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 13 .- Prentise Tiller, the Pacific Express company's money clork at St. Louis, who decamped with nearly $100,000 a few weeks ago, was arrosted at 10 o'clock this morning by Milwaukee detectives and $90,000 of the stolen money was recovand $00,000 of the stoien money was recovered. He turned out to be a young man looking like a tracep. He has a small monstache and brown hair. He has unobstrusive features and is of slight huild, weighing about 135 pounds. He bought a trunk at the store of Carples, Schram & Co., and asked to have it shipped to G. H. Pachen, Detroit, Mich. He was traced by the police to a cheap boarding house in the Third ward, but he was not at home. They found his trunk, and seized it. As the boarding house people said the man was frequently out all night, the police continued searching the city, thinking he must be on a spree. Tiller returned to the trunk store to ask about his valies, and was then arrested. He has been at the Third ward boarding house since March 8, but it is not known whether he boarded anywhere else before that time. Beside the moucy in the valies, there was also a quantity of valuable jewelry.

The arrest of Prentisa Tiller caused a great crowd to gather at the central police station. crowd to gather at the central police station, but the prisoner was carefully guarded and could be interviewed only very briefly. He was loud in saying that he had no accomplies, but at the same time added that it remained for the company to prove that he stole the money. He was very happy and proposed that the pelies should open the doors and charge the crowd an admission price to see him as a curiosity. He was identified by the Chicago and St. Louis agents, who were in the city, they having been called up from Chicago last night when the money was found yesterday. yesterday. St. Louis, March 13.—The officials and detectives here believe that after the robbery Tillor's necomplice took charge of the pinnder, which, he being a stranger, was easily taken out of the city. The arrangement evidently was that the accomplice should divide the spoils and send Tiller's portion to him by express to Milwaukee, addressing him, of course, in an assumed name. Tiller reached Milwaukee on the morning of the eighth, but there made the troublesome discovery that he had forgotten the name he was to assume, inquiring for the express package. In this emergency he telegraphed to McFadden, at Sherman, Texas, asking what was the name the valise bore. The telegram was intercepted, and McFadden, who had already been located, was carefully watched to determine located, was carefully watched to determine whother he sent an answer. He did not, and his arrest occurred a few hours later. Meanwhile the express authorities here were notified and on Tuesday evening a dectetive from here for Milwaukee.
